

Waunakee Rotary Club

July 17, 2008
Vol. 41 No. 52

Mary Beth Growney Selene, a member of the Rotary Foundation, told the club about that organization's work during the July 10 Rotary meeting.

The Rotary Foundation is unique, she said, because all funds contributed are invested for three years. At the end of the three years, everything earned from the contributions goes into the program fund and the interest pays for the administration of grants.

Last year, the Rotary Foundation exceeded $107 million for annual programs.

While the foundation's programs fund is spent every year, it's endowment fund is permanent, Mary Beth said.

Matching grants help fund efforts like Polio Plus, the foundation's No. 1 priority, she added.

The Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation has just announced that it will donate another $150 million toward polio eradication efforts after the G8 Summit. There eight countries addressed the world's health and welfare policies, Mary Beth said.

She added that the foundation's trustees have asked each club to donate $1,000 toward the polio eradication effort and to reach out to the community and educate members.

But Mary Beth said the foundation helps fund individual club projects, as well. These include group study exchanges, World Peace Fellows and other matching grants.

The matching grants are an effective way to fund projects. If a club dedicates $5,000 for a project, the District will match that. The Rotary Foundation will approve another match for the $5,000 and 50 cents on the dollar for the club's match. So a $5,000 contribution can turn into $17,500 for a project.

"Think how much can be done with $17,500 as opposed to $5,000," Mary Beth said.

From the Waunakee club alone, the Foundation has received $3,425 this year so far. Steadily, the club's contributions to the foundation have grown from $2,275 in the 2003-04 year.

Mary Beth noted that the approximately $3,500 from the Waunakee club will provide for six more wells serving 450 people in India, or 21 toilets serving small villages in Sri Lanka, or 125 cataract surgeries in Nepal.

"That is a lot of making dreams real for people," Mary Beth said.

She urged Rotarians to give to the Every Rotarian, Every Year fund.

"It is amazing what we can do for people we've never met," Mary Beth said.
